This rider provides higher Caps, Interest Rates, and Participation Rates to the applicable Fixed Account and Index Accounts than those Caps, Interest Rates, and Participation Rates of the annuity without the rider.

After the first Contract Year, this rider provides a 5% increase to the Penalty Free withdrawal amount for a total of 10% of the Account Value.

The Accumulation Protector Plus<sup>SM</sup> Annuity includes volatility-controlled indexes, the Momentum Index and Diversified Macro 5 Index. A volatility-controlled index (also referred to as a risk control index) seeks to manage the fluctuations of the value of an index. An index is generally comprised of equities, commodities, or other securities (risk components) and the index's value increases and decreases with the price of these risk components. This increase and decrease in price of the risk components and value of the index over a short period is volatility.

A volatility-controlled index consists of risk components and fixed income or cash (the risk-free component). If the volatility of the risk component exceeds a specified target, a volatility control index is rebalanced to reduce its allocation of the risk components and raise its allocation of the risk-free component. This may occur when the price of the risk components increases rapidly. Once the volatility is below a specified target, a volatility control index is rebalanced to raise its allocation of the risk components and reduce its allocation of the risk-free component. The rebalancing is based on the volatility-controlled index's rules. These rules may require a volatility-controlled index to be allocated entirely to the risk-free component, even when the risk components prices are rising. In a rising interest rate environment, the risk-free component may decrease in value. The volatility-controlled index's rules are explained in the description of the volatility-controlled index and these rules may be amended from time to time.

The volatility control feature reduces the impact of a rise and of a fall in price of the risk components. This means that the positive change in the volatility-controlled index would be less than if no volatility-control existed and less index interest would be credited. The volatility control also reduces the hedging costs of Atlantic Coast Life Insurance Company. Lower hedging costs may allow Atlantic Coast Life Insurance Company to provide greater guarantees, cap rates, participation rates or other index crediting rate factors.

Certain volatility-controlled indexes may also include fees in the computation of the indexes' value. These may include a maintenance fee based on the value of the index, and fixed transaction and replication costs. These fees reduce the value of the volatility-controlled indexes. These fees may also reduce the index licensing fee or the hedging costs that Atlantic Coast Life Insurance Company pay. These fees are set forth in the description of the volatility-controlled index.

Solactive has no relationship to the Atlantic Coast Life Insurance Company, other than the licensing of the Index and its service marks for use in connection with the Accumulation Protector Plus<sup>SM</sup> Annuity and is not a party to any transaction contemplated hereby.

The rules of the Index may be amended by Solactive. An amendment to the rules may result from, without limitation, a change to the construction or calculation rules for the Index or from Solactive determining that a change to the rules is required or desirable to update them or to address an error, omission, or ambiguity. No assurance can be given that any such amendment would not affect parties to this document.

The Index contains embedded transaction costs and holding costs. The Index is an excess return index, which means that it reflects the return of components net of the cost of funding a hypothetical investment in them. The Index returns are likely to be negatively affected by such costs of funding. The Index has a 0.5% per annum embedded fee deducted daily. The index fee will place a drag on the performance of the Index, offsetting any appreciation of its portfolio, exacerbating any depreciation of its portfolio, and causing the level of the Index to decline steadily if the value of its portfolio remains relatively constant.

While volatility controls may result in less fluctuation in rates of return as compared to indices without volatility controls, they may also reduce the overall rate of return as compared to products not subject to volatility controls.

The end-of-day value of the Index is published subject to the provisions in the rules of the Index. Solactive is not obliged to publish any information regarding the Index other than as stipulated in the rules of the Index.

The Index is the exclusive property of and currently sponsored by Solactive.

The Accumulation Protector Plus<sup>SM</sup> Annuity is not in any way sponsored, endorsed, or promoted by Solactive. Solactive has no obligation to take the needs of any person into consideration in composing, determining, or calculating the Index (or causing the Index to be calculated). In addition, Solactive makes no warranty or representation whatsoever, express or implied, as to the results to be obtained from the use of the Index and/or the level at which the Index stands at any particular time on any particular day or otherwise, the quality, accuracy and/or completeness of the Index, or the advisability of or results to be obtained by using, investing in, or trading the Accumulation Protector Plus<sup>SM</sup> Annuity, and Solactive shall not be liable, whether in negligence or otherwise, to any person for any errors or omissions in the Index or in the calculation of the Index, any delayed or interrupted publication with respect to the Index, or under any obligation to advise any person of any errors or omissions therein. The Index is compiled, maintained, and calculated by Solactive. However, Solactive shall not be liable for the results obtained by using, investing in, or trading the Accumulation Protector Plus<sup>SM</sup> Annuity.
